

The quality of local broadcasting has clearly become degraded since earlier deregulation steps were taken. This situation cannot be allowed to worsen by further deregulation. There was a time when the concept of "trustees of the public airwaves" meant something. Mass ownership has made a mockery of that doctrine. Local ownership is essential and should not be further threatened.